TRUCK LOAD OF BEER IS
SEIZED HERE*Police Take Charge of Liquor
for Club in Meadow
Lane.*U. S. OFFICERS NOTIFIED*Sample Taken to Determine Alcoholic Content; Unloading of Consignment at 4:30 O'clock in Morning; Arrests Suspended; Driver Arrested

Two men, charged with transporting liquor, are being held at the city jail awaiting the arrival from Pittsburgh of a federal prohibition agent this afternoon. One is George Glenshaw, of this city and the other is a negro, alleged to be a helper of the owner.

The men were caught, it was said, at the police station this morning, in the act of unloading a truck load of beer at a club in Meadow Lane. It is reported that the truck was loaded with beer at the time of the seizure. Patrolmen Andy Thomas and V. Bort Rittsch were used to make the arrests, although nothing was on the police record to show anyone had been charged up on what charge.

It was impossible to get any of the details from the police. On orders from Mayor Mitchell the doors to the jail were closed and no one was allowed to communicate with Glenshaw.

The name of the negro arrested as a helper could not be secured. The police said they did not know it.

Mayor Mitchell consulted with S. J. Goldsmith, the city solicitor and then called the prohibition authorities in Pittsburgh. The nature of the case was explained. The federal agents were told that although it had not been definitely ascertained that the beer on the truck was at greater strength than allowed by law, the fact that it was being delivered at about 4:30 o'clock in the morning would indicate there was a desire to avoid detection.

The federal agent was expected to arrive this afternoon. The truck was ordered placed in a garage and instructions were to hold both men, samples of the beer seized were to be taken for analysis.

Forty-five cases of the beverage were taken from the truck and stored in a cell in the women's department at the police station. There were 45 cases. In this number there were five bottles missing.

Glenshaw told Mayor Mitchell the truck with which he was making a delivery did not belong to him. There was much speculation as to where the beer came from. No official word on this could be secured. The bottles were not labeled and the case bore the names of various breweries and also different breweries. "Jay-Bee" cases were in the majority.

There included cases of the Masonic Brewing Company at Mason, Pa., Johnson Brewing Company of St. Louis, and of a brewery in Alabama.

A number of curious persons filed a writ of habeas corpus for the men, endeavoring to learn points in the case but all theories were rejected. Among them were several faces of persons suspected of bootlegging.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 9.—Rules were issued on the Standard Brewing Company of New Castle, the Star Brewing company of McKeesport, the Victor Brewing Company of Jeannette, the City Brewing Company of McKeesport and Herbert Mann of Pittsburgh, by Judge W. H. S. Thomson, in United States District Court to show cause why a large quantity of beer, seized by prohibition agents should not be destroyed. The rules are returnable February 14.

CHURCH HOPE OF WORLD BUT NEEDS TO
BE CHRISTIANIZED*This Is Declaration of Evangelist From Nebraska in Opening Revival Campaign Here.

Opening a three-weeks' evangelistic campaign at the First Christian Church Wednesday evening, Rev. C. C. Buckner of Fairbury, Neb., the evangelist, speaking on "Christianizing the Church" declared that it is agreed that America must take the position of leader in the Christianizing of the world and that to successfully maintain this role America must be Christian; that the duty of the church is to Christianize the nation, but that its first work must be Christianizing itself. "The work of the church," he said, "is to Christianize the world but the world cannot be Christianized until it is more Christian itself."

Men who stand aloof from the church, cynics, Bolsheviks, all agree, he said, that the hope of the world lies in the church. "They all come to this conclusion in the final analysis," he said.

In order that it may better become the "Good Samaritan," the great, big-hearted brother, there must be efficiency in the church to a greater degree than is found today. Unity is essential, he said. In this connection he scored what he termed "denominational strategy" or "denominational statecraft" of the kind which is leading to the centers of population are being covered with churches while other vast areas remain untouched, practically.

The church of today, despite shortcomings, is in the best condition of its history, Rev. Buckner declared, speaking from the spiritual standpoint.

The evangelist called for unified and efficient work on the part of the membership of the local church to the end that every member shall bear his full part of the burden of its work.

A large audience greeted the evangelist, who is a son of the pastor, Rev. George Walker Buckner. The choir was augmented to some extent but several of the regular members were absent because of illness. Miss Cora Charlesworth sang "Broken for You."

Following the service there was an informal reception for Rev. and Mrs. Buckner.

Tonight the evangelist's subject will be "Habit and Religion." There will be a song service from 7:30 to 8 o'clock, led by Jesse Barnes, who is acting in the absence of Director James Charlesworth, who is housed with grip.

It is probable a nursery will be arranged for the care of the babies of mothers who otherwise would miss the services.

Heiress and Husband
Find Home Cold Upon
Return From Wedding*By Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Anastase A. Vonsiatzky-Vonsiatzky, who were married in New York last Friday night, found their cottage home at Ridley Park, near here, cold and uninhabited when they arrived there yesterday and after remaining a short time sped away in an automobile.

Neither Mrs. Vonsiatzky, who was Mrs. Marion B. Stephens, Chicago heiress, nor her young husband, a Baldwin locomotive works employee, would talk to interviewers, but both seemed extremely happy.

The couple were observed at the West Philadelphia station and took a train to their home when they could not agree with a taxi cab driver on the fare to Ridley Park. Their identity became quickly known on the train and they moved from one car to another to avoid annoyance. Mr. and Mrs. Vonsiatzky went to Canada after their marriage.

MAYOR RELATES TO BOY SCOUTS
STORY OF LIFE*Address of Executive Feature of Opening of Anniversary
Week.*PARADE FRIDAY NIGHT

About 100 Boy Scouts, which number included Troop No. 1 from Vanderbilt under the leadership of Scoutmaster William Love, held a mass meeting last night at the Baltimore & Ohio Y. M. C. A., commemorating the 12th anniversary of scouting in the United States.

After repeating the scout oath, promptly at 8 o'clock, the same time at which 500,000 scouts or more, all over the United States were doing so, they were given an interesting talk by Mayor Charles C. Mitchell, detailing events in his life since he was six years old.

Mayor Mitchell spoke largely on his boyhood days, impressing the fact, that when they were young men, was the time to lay a good foundation for the future, if they expected to succeed. He showed them the difference between his boyhood and their own, declaring that it was on account of having a dominating will power that he had succeeded and was the place he now holds. He concluded his speech by saying that "you can get anything you want if you have the will power to go after it."

Other speakers were Deputy Scout Commissioner Ralph Sliger and James W. Southard, Scoutmaster William Love of Vanderbilt, Walter P. Schenck, president of the local scout council, and W. F. Underwood, first vice president of the council. Scout Commissioner R. C. Witt, who was chairman of the meeting, gave a short talk.

Tonight is an open one in the week's anniversary program. Friday night the boys will assemble at their respective meeting places and then gather at the Y. M. C. A. preparatory to parading the principal streets of the city. The parade will start at 7 o'clock.

Saturday the Scouts will go on an all-day hike to Rudolph's Cabin. Sunday evening there will be a special sermon at the First Baptist Church, delivered by Rev. E. H. Stevens, the pastor.

Endangers Life
Of Geo. The automobile had been left in front of Napier's fruit store while the driver entered its brakes did not hold and the machine slowly drifted towards the corner. Traffic Officer Ruit gave the "go" sign with the semaphore signal, unaware that one was in the car. He did not notice the machine was drifting until it passed the corner.

George Wagner narrowly escaped being struck by the machine. He was crossing the street. Thinking the car would be piloted safely by him he did not pay much attention to it. Instead of going in a straight line the machine suddenly swerved and as Wagner stopped at the sound of a warning shout it grazed him.

FINEGAN REPLIES TO CRITICISMS OF EDUCATION DEPT.*Charge of Lavish Expenditures "Maliciously Made to Deceive Public."*SCHOOL CODE IS CITED*By Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 9.—Criticism which, he said, have been directed against the State Department of Public Instruction and against himself, as superintendent, were taken up by Dr. Thomas J. Finegan, state superintendent of public instruction, in an address before the Pennsylvania State School Directors' Association here today.

Speaking on "Cooperation Between the State and the School District," Dr. Finegan discussed the functions of the state and the school district in relation to the system of education, the educational program of his department and then outlined the criticisms which he said have been made, without reference, however, to the sources of criticism.

Declaring he accepted the invitation to become superintendent of public instruction "on the understanding that an opportunity would be afforded to develop a school system which should be second to the system of education in no state in the country," Dr. Finegan said the whole general plan "was repeatedly outlined to the public," throughout the state.

"I am taking this subject up now," he added, "because of the recent criticisms of the department, and particularly of the superintendent, and with which you are thoroughly familiar. There are, in substance, three criticisms:

"1.—That it is the purpose of the department to usurp the functions and prerogatives of county superintendents and school directors.

"2.—That the expenditures of the department are excessive when compared with the expenditures of the present superintendent, and when compared with the expenditures of the following states: Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin.

"3.—That many of the positions of the department have been filled by persons not residents of the state, at exorbitant and excessive salaries.

"The county superintendents have spoken for themselves upon the validity of that portion of the first criticism which affects their interests. These officers, at a recent annual conference, declared they suspected foul play."

315 CASES WHISKY
SEIZED IN RAID AT
PT. MARION HOTEL*Value of Stuff Placed at Upwards of $15,000; Is Taken to Pittsburgh; Two Arrests Made.

Part of it buried in a cellar excavation and part of it in the John Rex apartments in the old Colonial Hotel, and in the Ernest Seely residence at Point Marion, 315 cases of prime old Kentucky whisky, worth on a precarious market upwards of $45,000, was Wednesday dug out and confiscated by Federal Prohibition Agent Charles C. Gregg and five assistants from Pittsburgh.

It was one of the biggest "boozie" raids ever pulled in the county, and according to Gregg, the biggest in Western Pennsylvania during the past six months. The federal agents were aided by Chief of Police Dave Turner and Officer Tony Bell of Point Marion. It is said that the Pittsburgh agents found the greater part of the whisky buried in the cellar alleged to have been used by John Rex, the rest being found in the Rex apartment and in the Seely place across the street.

Following the seizure of the liquor, Seely and Rex were placed under arrest by the federal agents on charges of illegal possession and transportation of liquor. They will be held pending a hearing.

The whisky was loaded on four trucks. The work took several hours and in the evening the journey to Uniontown started. At Fairchance Sergeant Austin and two state troopers met the convey. In Uniontown a halt was made in front of the courthouse and a large crowd soon collected to see the lot of what was probably the largest amount of whisky hauled through the city since prohibition days.

Federal Agent Gregg requested a state police escort for the journey to Pittsburgh and three troopers were detailed to accompany the convey.

FINEGAN REPLIES TO CRITICISMS OF EDUCATIONAL DEPT.

meeting of their organization, in which and in detail the whole plan of the educational program which is now in operation.

The superintendent declared his duties as set forth in the school code and education law "do not in any way infringe upon or usurp the functions of school directors."

The second criticism, he said, is "to the effect that the amount expended for salaries in the present Department of Public Instruction is eight times the amount expended by the previous administration of the department." "That statement," he added, "is false and it was known to be untrue when it was made. It was not intended that the statement should express the truth but it was deliberately and maliciously intended to deceive the public."

The total expenditure of Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Minnesota, and Wisconsin for educational administrative purposes, he said, are $12,000.

"The combined population of those six states is 27 times the population of Pennsylvania," he added, "and the aggregate amount which these states are actually expending for salaries in the administration of their education is twice that expended by Pennsylvania."

"The third criticism," he said, "deals with the employment of people from out of the state and with salaries paid the employees of the department. In the selection of members of the department staff I have been governed by the sole criterion of qualification for service to be rendered. No other consideration has controlled the appointment of members of the staff."

"It has been my practice to select people from the state of Pennsylvania to fill positions in the department whenever qualified persons could be found who would accept the appointments. I have been compelled in some instances to go out of the state in order to obtain such persons."

Chicago, Illinois.—"You surely gave woman one good medicine when you put Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on the market. I have recommended your medicine to several friends and they speak highly of it. You are certainly doing good work in this world."

A CONTEMPTIBLE POLITICAL TRICK.

Most people, who can rise above political or other selfish considerations in matters pertaining to the illness of a public official, will regard as preposterous, impudent and unjustifiable the demand of the Voters' League of Philadelphia that Senator Crow submit to an indignity by medical experts, and that they in turn make a report to the public of the result of their examination.

Dr. A. E. Crow, a brother and an attending physician of the Senator, is entirely justified in rejecting this offensive proposal. In even better terms than he used, he will be universally commended for having administered a sharp rebuke to the self-seeking politicians who would invade the chamber of a sick man for the despicable purpose of obtaining information to further their own selfish ends.

As Dr. Crow points out the effort to make political capital out of the unfortunate, but happily passing, illness of Senator Crow, is a very bold as well as a bold attempt to impugn the word of the Senator has spoken to the people of Pennsylvania through Governor Spruill, Senator Vare and other people of prominence and probity, who have given out the very acceptable and cheering news that the Senator is progressing satisfactorily toward recovery, and that he will assuredly be a candidate for the full six-year term as United States Senator at the May primary.

Intimating as plainly as could be intimated without openly declaring Governor Spruill, Senator Vare and others who have seen and talked with Senator Crow to be liars, the head of the Voters' League goes to the limit of effrontery in demanding that a court of medical inquiry subject the Senator to an examination in order that his report can be used as a means of eliminating him from the senatorial race.

That the unprecedented proposal of the Philadelphia politicians will not be considered, much less accepted, will receive the approbation of every right thinking citizen in the state. The heads of Senator Crow's friends have accepted without question the assurances given with respect to his slow but steady convalescence and are happy in that knowledge. They know, too, that neither the Senator nor any one authorized to speak for him has intimated that he will not be a candidate. They further know that he will be nominated at the primary in May and elected at the November election by a majority of the voters as to rebuke and forever silence all the detractors and meddlesome busybodies who would stop at nothing to accomplish their purpose of having the Senator shunted aside as a candidate.

Cheap tricks played upon well candidates rarely reward the player. When attempted on those making a winning fight to regain their health such artifices only serve to unke the authors contemptible and deserving of condemnation by every fair minded citizen and voter.

According to the disbursements under the United States Steel and Carnegie pension fund, "Abandoned Works" appears to have the largest population of coke region pensioners, but is the smallest in coke production.

The grippes is enabling the doctors to get a new grip on their practice. The rumor-mongers would have the public believe they know more about Senator Crow's ailment and condition than his attending physicians.

After a short stay in a "rest area" the Legion membership teams ought to be ready to go over the top with a bound in their recording drive.

Remembrance in the Shoe Emporium.
Fort Smith, Ark., Amelion.
This marriage is the culmination of a most unusual romance, dating back to the patriotic days immediately following the war when the lucky man returned from the submarine infested waters about the battlefields of France to be given a position with the Fort-Harden Shoe Co., where he met and was swept away by the undying devotion of the bride, who was an employee of the same firm. The wedding days from that time on, during which they were constantly in each others' thoughts, drew them closer and closer together in the sacred bonds of true love until they were rewarded by this wedding which has been the one and only marriage of each since they first met.

The Stuff They Call Whisky

New York Herald.

A young policeman—a man who had won a Carnegie medal for bravery, a man who had a good record on the force, a man of family—drew his pay on Monday and drank some of the stuff they sell as whisky in the New York speakeasies. Sometimes this stuff blinds those who drink it; sometimes it kills them; sometimes it drives them mad.

It drove the young policeman mad. He commandeered a cab and so scared the driver by firing his pistol that the driver jumped out and ran away. The policeman left the wrecked cab and fled to the house. He smashed a skylight and rumpaged in the hallways. The householder called a policeman from the street. The crazed policeman met on the stairs and aimed his pistol at him, but it missed fire. The sober policeman's pistol did not miss fire and the bullet went through the drunken one's heart.

Hooch did it—the aged liquid that the bartender in the blind tiger puts out on the bar in a bottle with a counterfeit label and tells his customers is "real pre-war goods."

Rents on a Sliding Scale

Bache Review.

The rent problem enters into the cost of things because it helps to keep labor, which has to pay it, high. It enters also into the price of goods directly, because the merchant has to figure it into his costs.

A novel plan of placing store rents on a sliding scale was presented at the National Shoe Retailers' convention in Chicago, by a member operating a chain of shoe stores, who makes his leases on an up and down automatic plan under which the landlord receives a certain percentage of gross sales, so that when business is inactive the tenant pays less rent than when it is good. He is said to claim that this makes the landlord take a direct interest in the success of his tenant, and, in the prospect of creating business, is more willing to put in improvements in the store to attract customers, on the ground that in this way his rentals may be increased.

It is not necessary to say that this plan is one which will be amenable to such considerations. Some of them are so constituted that they would hardly listen to inducements of this character, if some other tenant offered a fixed and higher sum than the minimum which would be accorded when business was not good.

Accidents on Steam Railroads Decreased 32 Per Cent in 1921

A decrease of 32 per cent in the number of accidents on steam railroads of Pennsylvania during 1921, as compared with 1920, is shown in the annual report of the Bureau of Accidents of the Public Service Commission.

The report shows 6,213 accidents, with 521 persons killed, a decrease of 26 per cent over 1920, and 5,881 injured, a decrease of 33 per cent. Of the persons killed, 179 were employees, 38 passengers and 270 classed as trespassers. Grade crossing accidents numbered 687 with 117 killed and 448 injured, as against 691 accidents of this class in 1920, with 146 killed and 495 injured. Of these accidents automobiles figured in 78 per cent, with 470 autos in collection with trains, 72 occupants being killed and 357 injured. In 1920, 429 automobiles were involved, 88 persons being killed and 383 injured.

Just Folks

THE BOY AFRAID OF HIS DAD.

Bill Jones who goes to school with me, the muddest boy I ever saw, he's just so afraid he runs away when all of us fellows want to play. An' says he doesn't stay about 'cos if his father found it out, he'd wallop him. An' he says so. With us to see a picture show on Saturdays, an' it's too bad. But he's afraid to ask his dad.

When he gets his report card, he's just as scared as scared as he is. An' once I saw him when he tried to go to school, he'd tried to cry. His dad, the teacher didn't care. An' he's marked the spelling fair. An' he told me there'd be a fight. When his dad saw his card that night, it seems to me he's afraid. But he's afraid of his dad.

My dad ain't that way—I can go. An' tell him everything I know. An' ask him things, an' when he comes back come at night he says we're chums.

An' we go out an' take a walk. An' all the time he tells me what I've done today that I should not. When I get home I'm always glad to stay around an' play with Dad.

Bill Jones, he says, he wishes he could have a father just like me. But his dad hasn't time to play. An' he's ashamed to play. An' he's afraid when he makes a noise. An' he's afraid if he breaks his toy. Sometimes Bill says he's not to lie. Or else he'd get whipped. An' that is why it seems to me it's awful bad to be frightened of your dad.

Goods Daily

Union Supply Company stores receive deliveries of Bread, Cakes, Pies, and Pastries—in fact, a full line of bakery goods, daily. These goods must conform to our specifications in weight, in addition to rigid requirements as to quality. They are sold at a very moderate profit.

Do not be misled by cheaper prices "per loaf." In such cases you will invariably find the reduced weight more than makes up for the reduced price. An apparently cheap "loaf" will likely be found pretty expensive when you consider the weight you are getting.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells How Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are probably nine times out of ten simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.
Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.
To stop or prevent this searing of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland, and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bismarck's Magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a glass of water after each meal, or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.
As a cathartic, such as Bismarck's Magnesia which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form, soothes the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial stimulants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bismarck's Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.—Advertisement

Miners and Trainmen Plan Joint Action To Resist Wage Cut

CLEVELAND, Feb. 8.—Warren S. Stone having announced that a joint meeting of trainmen and miners will be held shortly, organization officials here predict a close alliance between the two powerful union groups to oppose wage reductions, and carry out jointly the mine strike proposed for April 1, against reduced wages.
That the brotherhoods will not both defensively and offensively with the miners in the wage fight was indicated in Stone's statement.
Stone, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, also is head of that organization's new $1,000,000 coal properties in West Virginia. This new concern, formed a few days ago, is regarded as the brotherhood's first direct move to assist miners if a strike is called. It was pointed out only union miners would be employed in the new properties and preference was to be given miners on strike.
The connection between the miners and the railroads, Stone's statement said, was vital and in many cases objects of the two groups were practically identical.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 8.—Sixteen national railroad unions, including the "Big Four" brotherhoods, are expected by President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers to join in a joint conference in response to his invitation. "The conference will be called soon," Mr. Lewis said.
The object of the conference, according to President Lewis' invitation will be to combine the forces of the railroad men and miners to prevent reduction of wages.

Managers of City League Teams to Have Final Get Together This Evening

Meeting Will Be Held at 8 O'clock in Unity-Fraternity Rooms.

WILL ELECT PRESIDENT

By James M. Driscoll, Sporting Editor.

Final arrangements pertaining to the opening of the new city league season, which has already been drawn up, will be made tonight at a meeting of managers to be held in the city rooms of the Unity-Fraternity Rooms at 8 o'clock. The managers of the eight teams will be present.

A president will be named and in addition the schedule for the entire season, which has already been drawn up, will be submitted for approval.

Each team will present its entrance fee and the lists of players signed for each outfit will also be gone over and fixed. After tonight no change may be made in the personnel of the teams in the league.

There is a marked change in the attitude of the public toward the movement. At first the matter was given little attention, it being believed that the organization would not amount to anything noteworthy. Now that it has been placed on a sound basis and will be run entirely along business lines interest is picking up. One thing the fans are assured of—They will not see the same players each evening on teams of different titles. League players may play on only one outfit in the league.

The first game of the evening will begin at 7:45 o'clock. Each game will last approximately one hour. The price of admission has been reduced and the public will see two contests for less than the usual price of one. This is made possible because all teams are local and there is no great expense attached to the staging of the games.

Players and managers alike are taking an optimistic view of the opportunity of success in the short season remaining. It is felt that if the proposition goes through it will mean the foundation of a better league next year.

SOLDIERS CLASH TO PROTEST

The basketball team of the Howitzer Company protested the game last evening with the Company B team when it walked off the floor at Mount Pleasant in the last period as the result of very poor refereeing. The local soldiers played circles around their opponents during the greater part of the game, the score being 14-5 in their favor at the end of the first half and 18-12 in the third quarter. After that period the referee called only three fouls on Company B and 10 on Company A. When the score stood 20-20 in the third quarter, Brown, the Cokers' claim, simply started to give the game to Mount Pleasant, calling six straight fouls on Connelville with only three or four seconds between each foul. It was at this time that Connelville walked off the floor. The men declared they would rather forfeit the game and protest it later, than to let the referee simply give the game to Company "B."

The only thing lacking last evening was a couple of goal posts, and a few headgears for the players, as a number of "first and tens" were registered, Moore being the outstanding player in this department for Connelville, while J. Bobbs, who played guard, made some sensational flying tackles. Struble played a fine game for Connelville while J. Bobbs and Kelley played well for Mount Pleasant.

The line-up:

Howitzer Co.—20. Company B—25.

Struble F. P. Bobbs F.

Driscoll F. Kelley F.

Moore G. J. Bobbs G.

Nibbs G. Crusan G.

Butano G. Hare G.

Field goals—Struble 4, Driscoll 3, Moore 1, out of 4; Moore 1, out of 4; Butano, 2 out of 7; P. Bobbs, 12 out of 15; J. Bobbs, 0 out of 1.

Substitutions—Spilko for P. Bobbs, P. Bobbs for Crusan, Crusan for Hare.

Referee—Brown.

CAPTAN TAKES ANOTHER CONTEST FROM BAPTISTS

Score is 46-24 but Figures Do Not Tell Full Story of the Game.

MANY PERSONS ARE ILL

SOUTH CONNELLSVILLE, Feb. 9. The Capetan basketball team, showing much better form than at any time this season, trounced the Baptist outfit in a game at South Connelville last night. The score was 46-24. The church did not have a look in the glass, workers running away from the start.

At the end of the first half the score stood 23-3 for the victors. In the third and fourth quarters the visitors speeded up considerably and with the assistance of Addis added materially to their score. Addis got the only five field goals credited to the Baptist aggregation.

Moorman showed exceptionally good form, scoring six goals from the floor, mostly from a difficult side angle. He also got 12 out of 21 attempts. Addis was also finding the basket for his foul goals, dropping in 14 out of 20 attempts.

The game was considerably slower than has been played on the Capetan floor for some time, the Baptists being weakened by the absence of three regulars. The Capetan quintet showed the result of much practice. The passing was better and the players are getting into better shooting form. All the players of that aggregation were given an opportunity to play but substitutions in go way weakened the outfit.

The line-up:

Capetan—46. Baptists—24.

Dushaw F. Addis F.

Griffith F. Black F.

Moorman C. W. Ball C.

Adams G. Percy G.

Burkhardt G. T. Ball G.

Substitutions—Carr for Griffith, Griffith for Carr, Kocks for Burkhardt, Burkhardt for Kocks, Adams for Ambliss, Keger for Black.

Field goals—Moorman 6, Addis 5, Adams 5, Dushaw 3, Griffith 2, Carr.

Free goals—Moorman, 12 out of 21, Addis, 14 out of 20.

Referee—Driscoll.

Storm Country Polly

by Grace Miller White
Illustrated by R.H. Livingstone

"And you can tell her to come to-night at nine o'clock, to Granny Hope's aid shack," he proceeded. "I want to talk to her. Now get along and don't come around after any more milk, or I'll throw you out of the barn."

Grady had been gone, Polly passed out to the lane. In a little ravine at her left, a baby stream rumbled down the hill, with white water, and she watched it. She saw the fast gathering dusk flow away to the lake. It was then she saw something moving about in a small pool of water in a rock basin. Carefully she put the milk and eggs on a bit of smooth turf. Down the bank she slipped, and there in the falling gloom, struggling in the water, was a baby lamb. Polly rushed but she slipped about her waist and waded into the water. Several times she fell, and, clapping wet, scrambled up again. When she pulled the lamb to the bank, she dropped to the ground, gasping for breath.

"Poor little duffer," she murmured. "You was 'most gone, wasn't you? Come on home with Pollyop and get her up a bit."

In the road she picked up the pail, slipped the eggs into the milk and went swiftly down the lane, the lamb under one arm. Polly's heart sang with gladness. Out of the rigors of the storm country, out of the cold ravine water, she had found another little thing to care for.

Jeremiah Hopkins and Larry Bishop were in the shack when Polly arrived with her burdens. With much pride she displayed the lamb; then she fed him a portion of the milk with a spoon. While she was preparing the evening meal, she invited her father's friend to take potluck with them.

After supper she settled her family. "Wee Jerry she tucked into Daddy's bed, and Granny Hope was made comfortable in a chair by the stove, where she soon nodded off to sleep. Then, the lamb in her lap and the billy goat at her knee, Polly sat down on the edge of her cot, facing the two men. She knew by the dark expressions on their faces that a question of import had come up.

"De an' Larry, brat, have been tryin' to think of some way of gettin' rid of Old Marc," began Hopkins grimly. "Harrons brown fingers plucked at the lamb's wool, Polly, going white, stared at her father.

"You don't mean hurtin' him, Daddy dear, do you?" she broke out. "Oh, if that's what you're talkin' about, don't do it. Don't do it, Daddy! Something beautiful is goin' to happen to us squatters. God up in the sky sent an angel smack down from high heaven to help us."

The serious, lovely face turned pleadingly, truthfully up to his protracted Hopkins from looking his desire to laugh. Polly turned and looked at Larry. His dark face was heavy with frown and deep, grief-cut lines.

"There ain't any angels any more but up there," muttered Larry Bishop, looking an upward thrust with his thumb.

"Cap, there is Larry," contradicted Polly impetuously. "I seen one, He's bigger'n you an' Daddy put together, I guess; an' his face looks like the sun, all shiny an' bright. He says the squatters has to have a place to live in just like other folks, an' he won't let Old Marc run us out of the Silent City, neither after while, when he gets to workin' for us, you can hunt an' sub just the same as ever."

Hopkins looked at his daughter as if she had lost her mind.

"What's eatin' you, brat?" he demanded.

"Makin' me," replied Polly, "but I know what I heard."

"Spies it out to us," put in Bishop sagely.

"Then Polly told them. Both men laughed.

"Why, he's got more money'n Old Marc," snarled Hopkins. "It's just because we don't happen to be settin' on his ground that he ain't wantin' us off."

"Makin' me," replied Polly, "but I know what I heard."

got up and placed the lamb in a corner of the wood-box.

"I bet a cat he helps us squatters, though," she nodded positively. "An' you both got to promise right now on this," she picked up Granny Hope's Bible, "that you won't use a gun on Marc MacKenzie, nor do nothin' harmful to him. Let the other man look after us. There! Kiss this here book, an' you'll both feel better."

There was something compelling about the girl. It may have been the tones of her voice, wonderfully sweet and tremendously earnest. It may have been the brilliant smile she flashed upon her listeners. At any rate, the mayor of the Silent City and Larry Bishop, his henchman, repented in dull apathy the oath she dictated to them, the words that made the storm country a safe habitation for Marcus MacKenzie. Then both men reverently kissed the Bible and fell back limply in their chairs.

Polly kissed the ragged edges of the book too, then she turned to Hopkins. "Daddy, honey, I'm goin' out. Give your kid a lovin' smack. I'll be back quicker'n the billy goat can blink."

CHAPTER V.

The afternoon had been unpleasant for both Mrs. Robertson and her daughter. The lady was studiously icy to Evelyn, and the girl was utterly miserable. Robert Percival was away with MacKenzie. In his absence, although the two women ate dinner together and kept each other company afterward in the drawing room, their conversation was limited to the simplest commonplaces. The return of the men eased the tension. Percival excused himself almost at once to write some letters; and as MacKenzie made evident his eagerness to get Evelyn by herself, Mrs. Robertson seized a chance to steal away to her own room.

For some time after her departure the girl and the man were silent. This was the first time in Marc's life that his heart had been really touched by a woman, and in spite of his years and experience, he was almost as bashful as a young boy.

At length their eyes met, and the girl lowered, while the color mounted in a flood to her hair.

The man was by her side in an instant. He had read in the shy, retreating glance what he longed to see.

"Evelyn! I—I—I believe you care for me, I really believe you do," he exclaimed. "You do, sweet?" he demanded, his voice trembling.

"Yes," whispered Evelyn.

"Now, isn't it strange," asked Marcus, after they took up their conversation again, "that while I was gone I always thought of you, but not just like this. Honey, girl, how long have you loved me? Before—before today?"

"I think always," confessed Evelyn, with a growing flush.

What a fortunate man Marcus MacKenzie considered himself just at that moment! He had won the prettiest girl in the town; and she loved him.

"And to think I only came home last night," he exclaimed. "This time yesterday you were free, my Eve. At this moment no power can take you away from me."

Dreadful recollections of Oscar intruded upon Evelyn's new happiness. Oh, if she only had the courage to tell Marcus! Would he keep on loving her and help her to get free, or would he—She glanced into his face. There were upon it the marks of breeding, of pride in himself, his wealth, position and power. She knew how highly he regarded the conventions of society. If she should disclose to him the secret of her marriage to the farmer, he would see nothing but the blot upon her and turn away in disgust. No, she couldn't tell him. Despair overwhelmed her and made MacKenzie's arms burdensome. With an effort she smiled faintly and withdrew from him.

"I don't want to let you go, darling," he laughed. "It seems like a beautiful dream!"

MRS. ROBINSON TAKES DRUGGIST'S ADVICE

And Is Quickly Restored to Health By Vinol.

MRS. L. R. ROBINSON READ HER LETTER

Petersburg, Ill.—"I was in a weak, run-down condition and had very poor blood and was not able to work much of the time. My druggist advised me to take Vinol. I did so and it has restored my strength and I have gained weight. I think Vinol is a wonderful medicine for such conditions."—Mrs. L. R. Robinson, Petersburg, Ill.

Vinol owes its success in such cases to the tissue-building and curative elements of iron, which it contains. Thus in a natural manner it creates a healthy appetite, aids digestion and makes rich, red blood. It is only $1.00 per bottle and guaranteed. Laughery Drug Co.—Advertisement

Eve wished passionately that she were at liberty to make the dream come true.

"You are my beloved," asserted Marcus, and with the girl's whispered "yes," he allowed her to leave the room.

Evelyn went immediately to her mother's apartment and, opening the door, slipped in and sank down upon the floor at Mrs. Robertson's side. "I've told him I'd marry him," she said, with trembling lips. "Mother dear, oh, please, mother dear, don't you think you could borrow some money from Robert for me? I must have it. After I'm married to Marcus, I could get it all back for you. I know I could. I've just got to have a lot of money, and you can't expect me to ask Marcus."

Mrs. Robertson drew away with a shiver.

"If you so forget yourself, your family and your name as to do such a thing, I should disown you, Evelyn," she said, finally in her tones.

Evelyn rose wearily. She could imagine the heights of her mother's scorn if she discovered the actual situation. She felt that she would rather tell MacKenzie than the unrepentant, frowning woman in the chair.

"There's no use, mother, in trying to talk to you," she muttered. "I'll manage some way, though only God knows how."

Mrs. Robertson took up her book and gazed sternly at her daughter over the top of it.

"Very well, Evelyn," she said, ungraciously. "You're of age. If that's the way you feel about it, there's nothing more to be said."

Whereupon the speaker began to read, and a very hopeless girl crept out of the room.

When Evelyn was rejoicing the ravages made by her emotions, Polly Hopkins, crept into the Robertson garden. Her fear of Mrs. Robertson was mingled with a thrilling happiness. She had seen Granny Hope and Wee Jerry out the fence eggs; Daddy's promise would keep him out of trouble with Old Marc; and the beautiful stranger would help them!

She gave a piercing little yell, the signal she had always used to call Evelyn from the house. Almost at once a figure stepped from the door to the porch directly in front of her, and terrified, she shrunk back among the vines and clinging there.

She watched against the bright light was Robert Percival. He stood facing straight ahead of him at the dark driveway, but turned when Evelyn appeared beside him. Polly heard the murmur of their voices, that was all. They then disappeared into the house. Evelyn laughingly pushing the soldier ahead of her. Quickly the girl came out again; and Polly could hear her swift-cooing breaths as she ran softly down the steps.

"Shush!" hissed Polly Hopkins. "Lordy, I was scared to death some one'd catch me."

"Pollyop," questioned Evelyn anxiously. "What's he say? Was he angry?"

"Their heads was very close together, and Polly gave the message in a low tone.

"He wants you to come to Granny Hope's but at nine o'clock tonight, an' I guess you best do it. He's as mad as a cat a man can be."

"I'm afraid," Evelyn wailed. "I'm terribly afraid, Polly dear."

All the sympathy in Polly's heart came to sudden life.

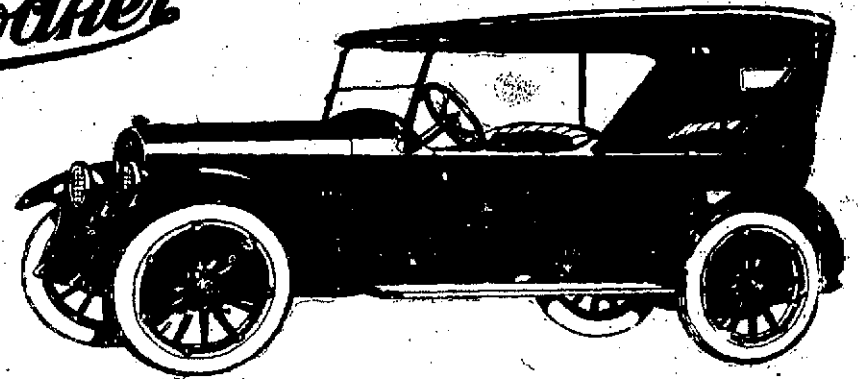

"I reckon you be," she returned. "But you've got to get up your spunk an' go. Oscar'd just as soon come bustin' right in your house here, I guess, if you don't. You come along, an' at this o'clock I'll like over an' get in the hut too. Say, why can't you talk just a little nearer to him? Granny Hope's got a flingin' an' it says when a feller hurts you, speak kind of soft back, but he won't have nothin' more to say. Hilt! What's that noise?"

Before Evelyn could say another word, the senator girl slipped away among the shadows. The other, although surrounded with every luxury, went wretchedly up the steps and, forcing a smile to her lips, passed into the single room.

Billy-got Hopkins had blundered many times before his little mistress came home. Larry Bishop had gone to his lonely hut, and Daddy Hopkins and Granny Hope were dozing in front of the stove.

In nervous tension Polly watched the clock crawl along toward the hour of

Studebaker

A SIX for the Price of a Four!

You can buy a Studebaker LIGHT-SIX today at a four-cylinder price!

But you cannot buy Studebaker LIGHT-SIX performance in ANY Four.

You get more for your money in the Studebaker LIGHT-SIX than in any other car in the thousand-dollar class. Because:

- (1) Studebaker had the biggest volume in its history in 1921.
- (2) Studebaker sales in 1921 were 29 per cent greater than in 1920 while the total of all other makes was 45 per cent less than in 1920.
- (3) Studebaker is the world's largest builder of six-cylinder cars—builds nothing but sixes.

Studebaker builds the LIGHT-SIX for less than it costs most manufacturers to turn out a four, because it is produced complete in the Studebaker plants.

The average list-price of the better-known fours is $1200. This does not include the high-priced fours. The Studebaker LIGHT-SIX Touring Car lists at only $1045.

Studebaker builds economically and sells at a low price because of continuous large volume, efficient production and skillful purchase of materials.

The new low price of the LIGHT-SIX was established without lowering the quality one iota. Its intrinsic value is unsurpassed in the industry, regardless of price. Today's price of the Studebaker LIGHT-SIX is the lowest at which it has ever been sold.

the meeting between Oscar and Evelyn. About a quarter to nine, she came out of doors.

By familiar paths, slipping past a shanty here and there, Pollyop came at length upon a lonely shack set on a point by itself. She went around to the back, opened the door, and once within the room touched a match to a small candle which she had taken from her pocket, and sat down quietly.

When Oscar Bennett stepped into the hut, he uttered an oath. He was not expecting to see Polly Hopkins.

"My lady won't come, eh?" he demanded gruffly.

"Oh, she's comin' all right," answered Polly, "but she was afraid. So I came along to see she got home safe."

A loud laugh fell from Bennett's lips.

"You're a clever kid, Pollyop," he said, more affably. "Dunning as a wensel, 4—d if you ain't! Sit down, I won't bite you!"

Polly, squatted on the floor by the old table; and Oscar eased himself gingerly down onto a rickety bench.

"I bet you was scared pink at what I told you to tell 'er," he burst out after a while. "She's about the most fly-livered woman I ever saw."

For the space of a few seconds Polly looked at the speaker. Then:

"I'm thinkin' she ain't lovin' you no more, Oscar, an' a woman without love in her ain't worth nothin'."

There was no smile on the lovely face when the words were finished. She had spoken the truth, and Oscar Bennett knew it.

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

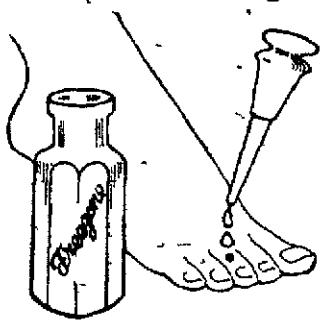

One of the gayest screen comedies ever produced was seen last night at the Soisson Theatre and is on again today. A clean, crisp, clever, conception is "The Hunch" and it shows Gareth Hughes, who rose to stellar prominence in "Garments of Truth" and "Sentimental Tommy," in the merriest bit of characterization that he has contributed to motion pictures. As a young New York broker who is arrested and accused of his own murder, his winning personality is left to his happiest. He is a decorative young man, in Mr. Hughes and he acts with the technical perfection and instinct for just the right touch to justify Mrs. Pliske's characterization of him as one of those who are keeping the fires of genius enkindled in the theatre. Mr. Hughes is supported by an excellent cast that includes Ethel Grandin, who retired at the height of her popularity and who now returns to the screen looking more daintily charming and younger than ever, Gale Henry, who used to head her own company in comedies and who now has a deliciously funny character role as an amateur detective Edward Flanagan, who as the young brokers friend garners more laughs than he ever did in his popular "Million Boys" production. John Stepping, Harry LaRue, and others are amusing as the staff and William H. Brown.

THE PARAMOUNT.

A rollicking comedy of cowboy life in the most gorgeous natural setting ever flashed upon the silver screen. "Dilly Jim" gives Fred Stone another splendid opportunity to entertain the country. It is being featured at the Paramount Theatre today. Dilly Jim, who has the leading female role while the rest of the cast is composed of well-known players. Stunts.

Wherein Paris Favors Us With An Idea of the Proper Thing in New Spring Suits

New!

A Sport Oxford You Will Favor.

We are the first to show them in Connelville—who will be first to wear them?

Come in smoked horsehair with saddle strap of tan calf-skin flat rubber soles with in-plant and on a protecting sole of leather.

They were first introduced at the recent Shoe Dealers Convention in Chicago and their popularity is destined to be come country-wide.

This is a rare opportunity to anticipate the mode to be first with a new fashion. They are priced $8.00.

The Vogue—divided against itself—as everything must be that concerns itself with a woman's fancy. Some designers there are who lay great stress upon Sports Apparel, assuring us that the bright colors and crisp jaunty lines which feature this type of costume will be found in places where one wouldn't dare swing a golf club. Others are more conservatively inclined and confine their efforts to the tried and true Tricotone and Point d'Elle perfectly willing to let their creations depend for their charm upon the trim and careful tailoring of their lines. These latter are responsible for the introduction of the new Three Piece Costume.

Innovations—here the Three Piece Costume or Cape Costume or whatever you may wish to call it takes the fore. We had a hint of it last Fall—this combination of blouse, skirt and coat, all in the same material—but it required the warm winds of Spring to make it bloom in the full maturity of its utility and beauty. What the combination really amounts to is this—the dress part may be worn on occasions that call for informal wear indoors. When the party or visit is over you don the cape and presto!—are ready for the street in as chic a suit as woman's heart could find it possible to crave. Two garments for the reasonable price of one!

Materials—Tricotone and Point d'Elle of course no season could be complete without them. And, striking a new note, Tweeds and a wondrously beautiful new fabric named Trelaine. This latter is already being worn in New York—people will tell you that you see it everywhere. It is a rich soft surfaced material akin to Old Country Tweed so practical and beautiful that its uses find no limit. A special process of weave makes Trelaine non-stretchable and it will not ravel. Pack it in a bag toss it in a clothes press, neglect it day after day and still it comes up smiling. Trelaine finds its best expression in the new artistic and unexaggerated models tailored by Printz.

In Detail—

Individuality in outdoor dress finds expression in a Trelaine suit with crisp and jaunty lines, inverted pleat down the back, patch pockets, and a fetching leather belt. The color is a two tone effect in mahogany and the skirt has patch pockets button trimmed. —$9.75

A three piece costume comes in navy tricotone, fully lined in Peau de Cygne. It's a hoxy model trimmed in daintily new braid motifs, heightened here and there with a contrasting touch of henna. These costumes are priced $25 to $39.50.

A two piece Prince Cape Costume has a skirt that is slightly gathered at the waist, a coat with roll collar, lightened by embroidery and braid, the design of which is followed out around the pockets and lower part of the sleeves. The latter are really no sleeves at all but miniature capes with swash-buckling slashes and vivid lining of henna. Peau de Cygne $85.
